

the one for you met her at twenty, married her at twenty two i wrote her songs back then, well that's what you do when you're with the one for you travelled for a while, across the plains of africa made love amongst the dunes, well that's what you do when you're with the one for you bought a house in chelsea, painted the walls chinese red polished the wooden floors, put brass handles on the doors bought a double bed

we had two children, pretty girls with golden hair watched them while they grew, well that's what you do when you're with the ones for you she became a teacher, touched upon those open minds showed them a bigger world, gave each one a little time blessings down the line came across the holy ones, thought we'd end at heaven's gate poured our souls into hers, learned how to meditate took back our fate

moved into the mountains, that's where you feel free walked the ridges and the glaciers, that's how i long to be amongst the fleur-de-lis that's where it's got so far, each day brings something new i kiss her when i can, well that's what you do when you're with the one for you

© anthony marrian